Founded in 1932, this family-owned firm is managed by the third generation of goldsmiths. It is specialised in restoring, designing and making gold and silverware, in particular from the 17th century, for museums and collectors.

The company restores items of great value, designs unique items, and has a collection of contemporary items in solid silver and silver-plated metal. It also carries out assessments.

The company has rare know-how in gold and silverware: it is skilled in complex manual techniques that only a few companies in France practise: forging, planishing, chasing, engraving, etc.

Its clientele consists of individuals, companies (notably Sotheby's and Christie's) and institutions (notably museums, such as the Musée Carnavalet).
