Founded in 1802, Les Pipes de Cogolin-Courrieu make pipes out of heather. They are mainly classic pipes (curved and straight).

The pipes are made using specific tools (wooden lathe for making pipes) that are over one century old. All operations (from turning to finishing) are carried out in the workshop. Further, Courrieu has excellent command of pipe sculpting. This complex method requires years of practice.

Cogolin-Courrieu pipes are sold in the workshop, on the company's Website and also via tobacconist shops all over France.
