Since it was founded in 1985, the company has been specialised in the restoration of hand-made carpets and tapestries.

It works on every part of carpets and tapestries: edges/tassels, or even pile that has holes, has been scraped, faded or eaten by moths, as well as misshapen carpets. Before restoration, all items are studied to identify the origin and period of the work and the weaving and dye used (mineral or plant). The workshop works by hand only, using raw materials that are the most similar to the original. The company uses looms. Férydoun Kabiry also sells a few ancient carpets and tapestries. As far as restoration work is concerned, the company works exclusively on specific order.
