Established in 1985 and with premises on the Viaduct des Arts for the last 12 years, Aisthesis is a high-end producer of cabinetry and marquetry. This is where Jérôme Cordié deploys his talents as a contemporary furniture designer.

In his work Jérôme Cordié applies the principles of ancient geometry and plotting dear to the builders of cathedrals. In addition, he uses precious materials, such as gold leaf and silver, mother of pearl, horn, bone, parchment, mica or shagreen*, of which he has made a particular speciality.

The company's creations are unique designs. They are a mix of traditional expertise and resolutely contemporary lines, to which a spiritual dimension is added. The company's philosophy: to create objects with meaning.

* All materials are used in an ethical framework in accordance with the Washington Convention on the protection of fauna and flora
