La Botte Gardiane is a small, traditional firm with twenty staff, which specialises in the production of footwear, in particular ankle and high boots, and sandals.

It is the only company in France specialised in making Camargue herdsmen's boots. The production workshop is situated on the edge of the Camargue, in the little village of Villetelle, between Nîmes and Montpellier. The company, through its craftsmen and women, has specific expertise which began life at the service of Camargue bull-breeding and herdsmen; these demanding customers led the company towards production techniques which have given our products both sturdiness and a high degree of comfort. This comfort and sturdiness also have to do with the hides we use: most of our products are made using very thick calfskin retanned in hot grease.
