Founded in 1931, the family-run firm, "Roger Mathon SA", is specialised in luxury jewellery. Every year, it produces thousands of unique items and items in small series.

The company has its own line of jewellery, which releases two collections per year. The products are made using a collection of over 10,000 moulds, models and designs, which have been kept since the company's origins. Around ten qualified people work on making unique items and small series. Prototyping, melting, setting and engraving are all carried out manually. The company also practises the complex technique of high melting enamelling. With the label "Joaillerie de France", the firm mainly does sub-contracting work for large Parisian jewellers. Its products are available in France and abroad.
